

[Jul 7 2014, 10:58 PM] edinnovator: Hi, everyone!
[Jul 7 2014, 10:58 PM] AquinoDLS: Hi there!
[Jul 7 2014, 10:58 PM] edinnovator: post your questions here, and we'll be sure to pass them along
[Jul 7 2014, 10:59 PM] snbeach: Excited to be with everyone.
[Jul 7 2014, 11:02 PM] EduEkahn: Hi all!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:03 PM] metravaba: Hi all!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:04 PM] edinnovator:
<http://blogs.kqed.org/education/2014/05/06/teach-donow-mooc/>
[Jul 7 2014, 11:05 PM] edinnovator: <http://blogs.kqed.org/mindshift/>
[Jul 7 2014, 11:06 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Hi everyone, glad to be here!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:06 PM] MBWeir: Excited to be learning new strategies to engage students!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:06 PM] edinnovator: Welcome!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:09 PM] DanaeBoyd: Q for Larry: How did you find those sister cities for your classes, thanks I teach Geo too
[Jul 7 2014, 11:11 PM] snbeach: Hi Tom
[Jul 7 2014, 11:11 PM] edinnovator: The Connected Educator:
<http://www.21stcenturycollaborative.com/the-connected-educator/>
[Jul 7 2014, 11:12 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Hi Sheryl, so great to see you again so soon post #ISTE2014!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:13 PM] snbeach: <http://plpnetwork.com/2012/05/29/our-skype-adventures-creating-connected-learners-in-the-global-classroom/>
[Jul 7 2014, 11:14 PM] shannonkelly03: Vicki, do you establish a separate "teacher" twitter account or do you use your personal account when you use twitter with students? I can see the benefits of just being one person, so to speak, online, but I can also see the problems with it.
[Jul 7 2014, 11:14 PM] GillianRiley00: Wow! Amazing kids showed up early for Mystery Skype!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:15 PM] GillianRiley00: Good question @shannonkelly03.
[Jul 7 2014, 11:16 PM] SteinatDavis: @jasonelsom is coordinating www.anadventure.org to connect classrooms interested in this. I have signed up my Ss for next year.
[Jul 7 2014, 11:17 PM] Tom_Kilgore: I'll bet the students can't stop talking about it, I wouldn't either!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:17 PM] metravaba: Seems that some teachers have two separate social media accounts and those who have one, and that account is only used for their educational networks and classrooms.
[Jul 7 2014, 11:20 PM] metravaba: "fake twitter!" <3
[Jul 7 2014, 11:21 PM] metravaba: What are some other closed social media platforms in addition to Twitter to use with students?
[Jul 7 2014, 11:22 PM] snbeach: <http://connectededucators.org/cem/cem-getting-started/>
[Jul 7 2014, 11:22 PM] jaclynsmith345: @metravaba Have you considered Instagram?
[Jul 7 2014, 11:22 PM] shannonkelly03: Our school uses schoology.com - like FB for school.
[Jul 7 2014, 11:23 PM] jaclynsmith345: Some also really like Edmodo
[Jul 7 2014, 11:23 PM] MBWeir: I have used "fakebook" for historical figures and "fake twitter" to replicate the committees of correspondence - student buy-in = high
[Jul 7 2014, 11:24 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Great way to get Ss engaged MBWeir!
[Jul 7 2014, 11:24 PM] snbeach: It is also important to be willing to be part of hosting hashtag chats as a way of modeling and getting the new to the connected space involved.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:24 PM] MBWeir: Thanks Tom - learning experience for me as well - all baby steps

[Jul 7 2014, 11:25 PM] craigyen: Hi all! :) Meet the educators where they are... whether Twitter, FB, or Pinterest.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:25 PM] craigyen: Was filling up the Twitter hashtag :-)

[Jul 7 2014, 11:25 PM] GillianRiley00: Just getting started myself. Life in Beta. User interface is very personal.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:25 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Me too, I'm learning every single day and loving it!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:25 PM] SteinatDavis: If my school is representative, we have about 20% of Ts really embracing SM, guiding others.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:25 PM] metravaba: @jaclynsmith345 Thanks! Students love Instagram. Suggestions for using?

[Jul 7 2014, 11:26 PM] GillianRiley00: @steinatDavis we have very few that I know of.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:26 PM] craigyen: Here's Connected Educator Month
<http://connectededucators.org/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:26 PM] edinnovator: <http://teach.com/teach100>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:26 PM] jaclynsmith345: @metravaba Tell the story of your classroom! (Make sure to get photo releases, depending on Board policy.)

[Jul 7 2014, 11:26 PM] Tom_Kilgore: We are converting them a bit at a time, just have to show the value!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:27 PM] RandyDepew: According to EdSurge: 3,000 education tweets per second!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:27 PM] craigyen: Physics of the Future via Vicki Davis (on Twitter) <http://physicsofthefuture.wikispaces.com/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:27 PM] snbeach: A great way to start is in reading blogs... like Mindshift

I would invite your unconnected colleagues to a twitter chat or to read blogs you are interested in.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:27 PM] SteinatDavis: @gillianriley00 I think it will take big successes by individ Ts in each school to create a following

[Jul 7 2014, 11:27 PM] craigyen: Gamified projects via Vicki Davis (on Twitter) <http://gamifi-ed.wikispaces.com/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:28 PM] jaclynsmith345: @metravaba Put a different kid in charge of making a 'record' of the day?

[Jul 7 2014, 11:28 PM] GillianRiley00: @SteinatDavis agreed. Twitter posts are also very positive. That's not for everyone.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:28 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Always give credit to where great ideas come from in our PLN's too, helps people see the value as well.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:28 PM] metravaba: blogs.kqed.org/mindshift/category/teaching-strategies/

[Jul 7 2014, 11:29 PM] jaclynsmith345: The high school in which I teach has maybe 20/90 teachers using social media, but it's scattershot rather than orchestrated.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:29 PM] craigyen: Larry Ferlazzo just suggested <http://nuzzel.com/> to send a daily email from your PLN

[Jul 7 2014, 11:29 PM] edinnovator: 1)start with your personal network 2) start with blogs of interest 3)recommendations/invitations to #hashtag chats

[Jul 7 2014, 11:30 PM] DanaeBoyd: Also start with your school districts policies and procedures, find out where the boundaries are and then empower your students, they can lead as well.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:30 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Vicki and Sheryl are amazing at this, they do so much to help new users to Twitter!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:30 PM] snbeach: @Danae So true. Kids are great at this.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:31 PM] snbeach: great blogs by teachers for teacher--
<http://plpnetwork.com/voices/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:32 PM] DanaeBoyd: Often by the time I master an app or online tool, the students are already ready to move on and share another, digital natives versus digital immigrants

[Jul 7 2014, 11:32 PM] metravaba:
<http://blogs.kqed.org/mindshift/2014/07/the-struggles-and-realities-of-student-driven-learning-and-byod/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:33 PM] DanaeBoyd: I am concerned that the winds of restrictive access change due to fear rather than knowledge and authentic use

[Jul 7 2014, 11:34 PM] GillianRiley00: @tina Barseghian Great question!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:34 PM] shannonkelly03: @DanaeBoyd I'm with ya! Always playing catch up can be exhausting!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:35 PM] craigyen: Yes, Youtube is blocked for both students and teachers

[Jul 7 2014, 11:35 PM] jaclynsmith345: It's an Internet FILTER. Not a wall.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:35 PM] craigyen: Need to teach students proper usage... why block when they can reach into their pocket and get out

[Jul 7 2014, 11:36 PM] GillianRiley00: We unblocked YouTube but had to block again due to slow speeds w/ increase traffic.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:36 PM] jaclynsmith345: @craigyen EXACTLY. We need to teach "digital citizenship".

[Jul 7 2014, 11:36 PM] DanaeBoyd: When districts put up expensive filters and/or walls, the kids always get around it and it really just blocks the teachers. Let's monitor better and just hold learners accountable rather than block

[Jul 7 2014, 11:37 PM] snbeach: Bandwidth can be an issue but it also is one we need to be proactive about. We need to make sure kids have what they need.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:37 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Agreed Craig, we should be teaching proper/smart usage versus blocking.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:37 PM] edinnovator: <http://all4ed.org/issues/project-24/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:37 PM] DanaeBoyd: @jaclynsmith345 I agree with you, often time students think they are anonymous and therefore participate in risky online behavior

[Jul 7 2014, 11:38 PM] jaclynsmith345: @DanaeBoyd This was a thought-provoking article for me on many levels.
<http://chronicle.com/article/Confronting-the-Myth-of-the/145949/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:38 PM] SteinatDavis: There are Digital Citizenship tutorials for elem age Ss. That's where we need to begin the teaching.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:38 PM] snbeach: I would love for all of you to respond to these questions too if you have examples or stories.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:39 PM] snbeach: Here as a learner first.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:42 PM] KQEDedspace: Connecting with people who have different life experiences is crucial to the learning and teaching process.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:44 PM] Lisa Mata: One site you can find digital media lessons is: <https://www.common sense media.org/educators/curriculum>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:44 PM] KQEDedspace: Great resource. New Teacher to Twitter Chat (#NT2t) Saturday Morning at 9am EST.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:44 PM] SteinatDavis: TY Lisa! I was looking for the link.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:45 PM] Lisa Mata: Sheryl, will you please post the name of the book you mentioned. Sounds really interesting.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:45 PM] snbeach: <http://www.amazon.com/The-Medici-Effect-Elephants-Innovation/dp/1422102823>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:46 PM] snbeach: Medici Effect

[Jul 7 2014, 11:46 PM] Tom_Kilgore: <http://www.amazon.com/The-Medici-Effect-Elephants-Innovation/dp/1422102823>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:46 PM] snbeach: Beat you tom! hahah

[Jul 7 2014, 11:46 PM] snbeach: Wink

[Jul 7 2014, 11:46 PM] DanaeBoyd: @snbeach : I agree with the Medici Effect that you speak of, that's why I think #DoNow is so important because our students can learn from others outside of their community

[Jul 7 2014, 11:46 PM] edinnovator: Thank you both- too fast for us, too :)

[Jul 7 2014, 11:46 PM] metravaba: Thanks Tom and @snbeach. There is value in repetition.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:47 PM] snbeach: @DanaeBoyd I expect great things and look forward to learning from all the #DoNow ers

[Jul 7 2014, 11:47 PM] Tom_Kilgore: LOL, great book, I really connected with it as well! Definitely gives view of importance of "outside the box" approaches

[Jul 7 2014, 11:47 PM] snbeach: I am honored to have the opportunity to keynote quit a bit. But I do agree with Vicky.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:48 PM] snbeach: quit=quite

[Jul 7 2014, 11:48 PM] metravaba: Actresses as keynote !?!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:48 PM] Lisa Mata: I wonder if that goes to your point earlier about how teachers tend to be very modest.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:48 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Very well put Vicki!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:49 PM] snbeach: All of PLP's networks are walled gardens -- so teachers can fumble with grace.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:49 PM] MBWeir: a way to engage your students in a fairly controlled manner is USC Shoah Foundation iWitness.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:50 PM] snbeach: @kathycassidy please follow her. She is wonderful with little ones and connected learning.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:50 PM] snbeach: Her book..
<http://shop.plpnetwork.com/connectedkids/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:50 PM] DanaeBoyd: When I taught younger learners I used www.epals.com with them, because of the heavy monitoring tools, and we connected with classrooms worldwide

[Jul 7 2014, 11:51 PM] snbeach: <http://kathycassidy.com/>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:53 PM] edinnovator: <http://www.amazon.com/Reinventing-Writing-Changing-Teaching-Learning/dp/0415732093>

[Jul 7 2014, 11:54 PM] MBWeir: What I and my students like about KQED DoNow is they can respond 3 ways on twitter with a class hashtag, on the blog or in their notebook. Still engaging but creates a conversation with the issue, others around the world, their peers and with me.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:55 PM] DanaeBoyd: Teachers should be mindful when using social media tools to get the most bang for their spent "buck"! You can overwhelm yourself and them.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:55 PM] shannonkelly03: @ Lisa Mata I think we teachers are smart enough to have a certain level of self-consciousness about the validity of our ideas. We read and think a lot, and that much reflection also means self-doubt because we always know there's more to know!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:55 PM] RandyDepew: @MBWeir Great Point. Audience is critical to the process.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:55 PM] SteinatDavis: I have found Google forms as polls to be helpful for getting Ss feedback on what's wkg in the classroom, but not for immediate feedback. I like Socrative.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:56 PM] DanaeBoyd: True, technology should transform the learning and not just be used for the sake of using it

[Jul 7 2014, 11:56 PM] MBWeir: Another good baby step to see how you students behave online is a Poll anywhere type app.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:56 PM] Tom_Kilgore: I use G-forms as well, great formative assessment & get a good picture of what needs to be covered differently or deeper as lessons are taking place

[Jul 7 2014, 11:56 PM] shannonkelly03: Great (free and usually unblocked) "closed" twitter-like site is Today's Meet - love using it with students while showing a documentary or other film.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:57 PM] SteinatDavis: Today's Meet also engages those Introverts/thinkers (like me!)

[Jul 7 2014, 11:57 PM] MBWeir: thanks Shannon have been "looking" at this tool may have to take a test run!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:57 PM] AquinoDLS: @snbeach Great point. I think a lot of my teachers get hyperfocused on the tool and not the outcome. However, I also find some defaulting to what they are comfortable with (not using technology).

[Jul 7 2014, 11:58 PM] DanaeBoyd: I use Poll Everywhere, when I really want a true answer, without the I'm joining along with my friend just because...

[Jul 7 2014, 11:59 PM] metravaba: @shannonkelly03: Great (free and usually unblocked) "closed" twitter-like site is Today's Meet. I have seen this site used in similar ways, have student participate in a conversations in real time.

[Jul 7 2014, 11:59 PM] Lisa Mata: This was my first successful webinar. So much great information exchanged. Thank you!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:59 PM] AquinoDLS: I like to show my Poll Everywhere and Today's Meet results across classes to let students see what others are thinking

[Jul 7 2014, 11:59 PM] Tom_Kilgore: Thank you for a very thought provoking session, greatly appreciated!

[Jul 7 2014, 11:59 PM] metravaba: @Lisa Mata- YA!

[Jul 8 2014, 12:00 AM] MBWeir: Thank you to everyone! Lots to think about and try out!

[Jul 8 2014, 12:00 AM] DanaeBoyd: Thanks Matt and Tina for hosting! I was able to add items to my toolbox.

[Jul 8 2014, 12:00 AM] edinnovator: www.educatorinnovator.org

[Jul 8 2014, 12:00 AM] jackiegerstein: Great chat - thanks to all speakers - moderators

[Jul 8 2014, 12:00 AM] avance3360: Great webseminar. Thank you very much!

[Jul 8 2014, 12:00 AM] AquinoDLS: Thanks everyone, especially to our hosts and speakers!

[Jul 8 2014, 12:00 AM] edinnovator: www.makesummer.org

[Jul 8 2014, 12:01 AM] metravaba: Value of connected learning!

[Jul 8 2014, 12:01 AM] KQEDedspace: Special thanks to this week's #TeachDoNow panelists @MindShiftKQED @coolcatteacher @Larryferlazzo @snbeach

[Jul 8 2014, 12:02 AM] snbeach: Thanks-- enjoyed being with you

[Jul 8 2014, 12:02 AM] snbeach: Be sure and make plans to be part of Connected Educator Month in October

[Jul 8 2014, 12:02 AM] edinnovator: Thank you, everyone! Great conversation.

[Jul 8 2014, 12:02 AM] snbeach: <http://connectededucators.org/>

[Jul 8 2014, 12:02 AM] snbeach: And stop by <http://plpnetwork.com/> and say hello.